TOUCHDOWN

“There are some parts of the world that, once visited, get into your heart and won't go. For me, India is such a place. When I first visited, I was stunned by the richness of the land, by its lush beauty and exotic architecture, by its ability to overload the senses with the pure, concentrated intensity of its colors, smells, tastes, and sounds. It was as if all my life I had been seeing the world in black and white and, when brought face-to-face with India, experienced everything re-rendered in brilliant technicolor.”

Day 2 – In Jaisalmer

We begin our tour with the crowning glory of Jaisalmer, the 12th century fort. The Jaisalmer Fort is the epitome of Indian architecture and design and military magnificence. Standing 250 feet tall in massive yellow sandstone, this is one of the largest forts in the world.

The Jain temples situated in the Jaisalmer Fort are a must-visit site. These temples have an archaeological value attached to them. These Jain temples date back to the 12th and 15th centuries.

Our next stop is the largest haveli (mansion) in Jaisalmer, the Patwon ki Haveli. Standing in a narrow lane, this haveli is an interesting piece of architecture. This is because it was the first haveli erected in Jaisalmer and is a cluster of five smaller havelis.

Jaisalmer has some of the most beautiful stretches of sand dunes as far as your eyes can go. The Sam sand dunes are the closest place from where you can begin experiencing the magic of the Great Thar Desert. Sam has a truly magnificent stretch of sweeping dunes, with sparse or no vegetation. These dunes are best explored on a camel's back. The golden crests and troughs provide you with a sense of timelessness and limitlessness.
