INDIAN TEXTILE INDUSTRY

The textile industry of India is diversified on a broad spectrum ranging from fibre to fashion. It is well sufficient to cater to the needs of domestic demand as well as has marked itself in the global market also. The powerloom industry has traditionally been a cornerstone of the Indian economy in terms of foreign exchange earnings and employment. It is a decentralised sector with a wide spectrum of varied products ranging from cotton to synthetic fabrics used for apparels and made-ups, produced on plain to latest hi-tech looms. The readymade garments and home textile sectors of India are heavily dependent on powerloom sector to meet their fabric requirement. The major powerloom clusters in India are Bhiwandi, Erode, Salem, Madurai, Ichalkarnaji, Solapur, Bhilwara and Malegaon, among others.

With the vast experience of conducting international events it is needless to say that IITExpo 2016 will be a grand success.
