We are witnessing a race to increased productivity with least attention being paid to human health and environment.

Friends,

At the outset, on behalf of the Central office bearers, I wish you all a very Happy and Prosperous New Year. It is our earnest hope that the New Year brings in good tidings for our association and our efforts to increase occupational health awareness bear success.

Preparations are in full swing for the OCCUCON-2014 to be held in Goa from the 11th to 14th of February'2014. A large number of delegates have registered for the Conference and a feast of scientific sessions are on the plate. We hope the efforts of the organizing committee bear fruit and we have a very successful conference and are also able to save some funds to build a corpus for the IAOH. The theme of the Conference is Health & Well-being at the workplace being key drivers for sustainability. We are witnessing a race to increased productivity with least attention being paid to human health and environment. Fortunately, national leaders are waking up to this reality and "Sustainability" has now become the key word for all stake holders to ensure that we do not exhaust all our natural resources, leaving nothing for future generations. It is hoped that the conclusions of the conference symposia are conveyed to the government for its consideration.

The recent building crash in Goa with its large casualties, has brought into focus once again, the lack of health & safety awareness in the construction industry in India. We have put up a BOHS Module on construction industry on our website and it is our earnest hope that IAOH members undertake educational seminars for engineers, workers, builders to increase awareness about the occupational hazards in the construction industry.

Meanwhile welcome to Goa and hope you enjoy the Conference.

Warm Regards,

Dr Chaitanya Gulvady
President, IAOH.

Editor's Note

Dear colleagues,

You may have noticed that we have given your newsletter a name! We hope this OSHEN will be an ocean of occupational health & safety news for all IAOH members.

Editorial team of this newsletter would be happy if more branches send in their contributions. Individual readers are also encouraged to write to us.

Friends, Armed forces and paramilitary forces employ thousands of our citizens. This is an occupation with known hazards and risks. Having done a short service stint in Indian Air Force, I have closely watched these men put their lives in danger for nation's security. Have often wondered how our traditional OHS approach could be applied to this sector...

The least we could do on occasion of Republic Day is to salute this brave guardian of our borders.

Happy Republic Day. Jai Hind!

- Dr Dileep Andhare

Branch Activity Reports

Andhra Pradesh (AP):

IAOH AP Branch organised a CME Program on 14th September 2013 at Hotel Marigold Begumpet Hyderabad.

Dr. J. Vijay Rao President IAOH AP Branch welcomed the members and other delegates and speakers of the evening. He emphasized the important & vital role of the Occupational Health Physicians in promotion of health-safety, wellness & environment at work place.

A large number of the audience; not only IAOH members, Safety professionals and PG Students but also private practitioners of various specialties from the twin cities were present for this CME Program.

Dr. Bakhtiar Choudhary, Central Council Member, IAOH - AP Branch introduced the scientific session topics and speakers to the delegates. The two important topics which were selected for the programme were

1. Recent Updates in the Management of Psoriasis.
2. Ten years of Injection Enbrel experience in Rheumatoid Arthritis.

Dr. R. Narasimha Rao, Consultant dermatologist of the South Central Railway Hospital, Secunderabad elaborately discussed the first topic. He took back all participants to their physiology & pathology lecture days and explained in details the recent modalities of the available treatment in the form of topical Ointments, Oral drugs, Phototherapy, Excimer LASER therapy, and TNF alpha blockers (biologics) for management of Psoriasis.

The second topic of the CME Programme was well covered by Dr. U.R.K Rao, Senior Consultant, Rheumatologist. He explained that achievement of disease remission is the first priority in the management of Rheumatoid Arthritis (RA). He also discussed in detail about the mechanism of Immuno modulator drugs in the management of Rheumatoid Arthritis / Psoriatic Arthritis / Juvenile Rheumatoid Arthritis etc.

Both the topics invited lots of feedback & queries from the delegates and in-depth discussion took place on the management of Psoriasis and Rheumatoid Arthritis.

Dr.S.P.Vivek Chandra Rao, Central Council member, stressed the importance of BOHS activities at state and central level. He also advised AP Branch to organize CME's exclusively for Medical College students & private practitioners in the rural areas.

Dr. Nanda Kishore concluded with his secretary's report and stressed the need for support from occupational health services to protect valuable human life. He also spoke about emerging diseases that are posing a challenge to the industrial physician.

Dr. Shalabh Saxena Executive Member IAOH - AP Branch proposed the vote of thanks.

IAOH and its website presentation modules on BOHS are published in GOHNET (pg. 24).

Presentation of the Indian Association of Occupational Health (IAOH)

The Indian Association of Occupational Health (IAOH) is a group of occupational health practitioners of India. It is committed to enable occupational health professionals to make India's workplaces healthy, safe and green, and free from the ill effects of hazards, by evolving effective solutions; to be the nodal nongovernmental organization committed to attend highest standards of health in India by enabling stakeholders, influencing policy makers, and creating community consciousness.

To disseminate the knowledge and awareness on 'Basic Occupational Health Services', it has launched another initiative by putting up BOHS presentations on the IAOH website (www.iaohindia.com). Eminent experienced and specialist subject experts have developed modules on

- 1) Overview of Occupational Health,
- 2) Chemical Hazards,
- 3) Physical Hazards,
- 4) Occupational Health in Agriculture Sector,
- 5) Occupational Health in Construction Sector,
- 6) Occupational Health in Mining, and
- 7) Ergonomics.

The objective is to utilise these presentations and hold seminars for various stakeholders of occupational health. This should include medical officers of primary healthcare centres in various districts, the medical fraternity practising in industrial zones, safety engineers in industries both large and small, Industrial Associations, and other interested parties.
