Sharp increased in RBD Palmolein Import (107%) :-

The import of RBD Palmolein during the first seven months of the current oil year i.e. from November 2015 to May 2016 jumped to 15.87 lakh tons from 7.66 lakh tons (107%) replacing import of CPO and expected to increase further in the coming months. The alarming increase in import of RBD Palmolein, seriously hurting the domestic refining industry. This situation has arisen due to the fact that currently the landed cost of RBD olein (finished product) is lesser than Crude Palm Oil (CPO - raw material). Due to this situation, the domestic refining industry is facing severe crisis of under utilization of capacity and is on the verge of closure. Presently tax on export of CPO from Indonesia/Malaysia is higher by 5% in comparison to Refined Palm Oil/Olein. This differential will keep increasing with increase in prices of Palm Oil in the origin countries. Therefore duty differential in India has to be made variable to be in line with the differential duty prevailing in Malaysia/Indonesia and justify to increase in duty difference between crude and refined vegetable oils from 7.5% to 15%.
