A Unique Abutment for a Neglected Modality in Implantology:

Among the hustle bustle of modern implantology the basic but reliable and economical modality of implant treatment “the overdenture” has been overlooked and neglected. The presentation would like to rejuvenate this basic modality wherein the port : locator abutment plays an important role in improving the effectiveness and durability of the overdenture. This unique abutment is easy to use , versatile, and could be more effective than other options of retention in overdentures.
