PURPOSES OF THE ASSOCIATION

Founded in March 2019, EDWC is a scientific, no profit organization. The mission of the Association is to encourage and to support a European-level approach in research, training, development and dissemination of evidence-based procedures in order to stimulate the adoption of patient care best practices by European health professionals in the field of dermatology who are interested in the management of wound lesions of various etiology: acute and chronic.

The Association also aims to disseminate news, scientific and legislative updates in this matter, at a European level, through direct communication and in conjunction with other scientific organizations.

These aims are pursued through the organization of various types of initiatives, such as meetings, conferences, courses, workshops, publications and clinical studies; through the activation and management of websites; and through any other scientific activities that may facilitate the exchange and circulation of wound management skills in the dermatological field.

The Association, although no profit, can perform all the actions and all the operations necessary or useful for the pursuit of the purposes of the association, collaborating with and also joining other European Associations, Organizations or Scientific Societies which carry out activities that are similar, ancillary or functional to the activities of the association.
