

Call for Abstracts

Symposium: Safeguarding Living Heritage and Community Resilience through Tourism: From Principles to Practice

Kuching, Malaysia | 17-24 October 2026

Organised by: ICOMOS International Cultural Tourism Committee (ICTC)

Chair : Ivan Anthony Henares PhD.

Living heritage functions as a dynamic ecosystem, where communities, cultural practices, and the environment interact continuously. Tourism is part of this ecosystem — it can support or stress heritage depending on how it is managed. Realising its potential requires a mindset shift and transformative approaches, moving beyond the conventional perpetual growth model of tourism toward strategies that strengthen resilience, sustain community practices, and ensuring heritage continues to thrive amidst conflict, disasters, and social or environmental change.

This symposium explores how the 2022 ICOMOS Cultural Heritage Tourism Charter can guide such transformative action. We invite practitioners, researchers, policymakers, and community representatives to submit abstracts highlighting strategies, innovations, or lessons learned in:

- Operationalising Charter Principles to support heritage as an ecosystem.
- Community Engagement and Collaborative Governance involving local and indigenous communities.
- Risk, Conflict, and Disaster Management integrating resilience into heritage tourism planning.
- Monitoring, Evaluation, and Lessons Learned from practical case studies.

Abstracts (300–500 words) should include context, methods, outcomes, and relevance to one or more of the above themes. Include author(s), affiliation(s), and contact details.
