

Dr. Prashant Nasa

MD, IDCCM, FNB (Critical Care Med.), IFCCM, EDIC, SCE (Acute Medicine), CIC, MSc Healthcare Management

He is currently affiliated with Anesthesia and Integrated Critical Care Unit, New Cross Hospital, Royal Wolverhampton NHS trust, Wolverhampton, UK.

Dr Nasa has over 17 years of vast experience in Intensive Care Medicine and working in tertiary healthcare settings in United Kingdom, UAE and India. He has a great interest in clinical research, with over 100 publications in peer-reviewed journals and has written over 45 chapters in various books on various topics of Critical Care Medicine. He was awarded Excellence in Healthcare Research awarded in UAE for 2023-24.

Dr Nasa is a co-Editor of the book Rational Use of IV Fluids in Critically ill Patients which has been downloaded over 1.3 million times in less than a year from its publication and rated 5-star by the readers.

Dr. Nasa is also a core group member of the PROVE Network in the Netherlands, the International Fluid Academy, and the Abdominal Compartment Society (WSACS).

Areas of interest:

- ARDS and Mechanical ventilation
- Fluid Stewardship
- Sepsis