21-22 October 2021; Virtual Platform

Background

The last couple of years have been fraught with sufferings-both physical and mental. The education sector has been probably one of the most affected with educational institutions shut down for full academic years and beyond. Final assessments were compromised upon, dates were pushed, and students had to deal with lots of uncertainty and many anxious moments. Higher education decisions needed to be put on hold for many.

The spotlight is on steps to normalise the Education ecosystem as quickly as possible with minimum compromises. Also, we need to step up our efforts to prepare our future generations for building a nation ready to undertake rapid advancements and challenges of technology. We must rapidly move towards becoming a knowledge economy with high quality manpower.

The Education Council 2021 constituted six taskforces across school and higher education to focus on key areas such as early childhood education, capacity building of teachers, holistic learning, mental health, technology, assessments, industry-academia partnerships, future skills, employability, commercialisation of research and entrepreneurship.

To highlight the key points in the above areas and discuss the way forward, CII is organising the 11th edition of CII Education Summit on 21-22 October on digital platform. The Summit will also highlight the changes that have been necessitated during the year, in curriculum, pedagogy, assessment, reimagining education spaces and capacity building of teachers.

CII's 11th Education Summit will highlight key areas of intervention and action steps required while we continue our battle with the pandemic and the impairment that it has created in the education wheel. The annual Summit will also celebrate the rigour and resilience shown by the education fraternity in these trying times and will deliberate a path towards full recovery at an earliest possible time. The Summit will especially focus on the National Education Policy and its implementation going forward.

CII Education Summit is being organized for the past one decade and has received the support and patronage of the Ministry of Education in its previous editions. Achievements of AICTE-CII Survey of Best Industry-Linked Technical Institutes will be celebrated, new initiatives will be launched, and key publications will be released at the platform.
